

INTEGRATING THE ARTS INTO TEACHING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT FOR CLASSROOM TEACHERS

Roll'in Stories: Print-making with a Handmade 'ART Machine' (hybrid)

PDE3 course #FA187485, section #308547

Taught by Jill Weiner

Description: How does the process of designing and printing original images and symbols enrich student learning? The ART Machine is a simple, hand-held roller that enables educators and students to create unique designs and symbols which convey ideas and stories. Students will roll their way to engaging artworks that deepen understanding of artistic expression and connection of classroom subjects through symbolic representation. Sharing information is critical in communicating ideas, be it through words, mathematical formulas, symbols or artistic mark making. In this collaborative hands-on artmaking experience, participants will explore the intersection where engineering, visual storytelling and art meet. Educators will learn to guide students to create self-designed symbols through basic printmaking skills and making printing plates to tell meaning-filled stories that can be connected with a range of subjects.

This course consists of three parts: In-person course sessions, in-class modelling and observation by the course instructor as well as asynchronous work. Each part will help educators develop comfort, knowledge and skill to ensure that the art-making process will be useful for many years to come.

Space is limited, register early for this hands-on experience!
